Forgive me for this, but I'm going to be harsh here. Magic Potion Destroyer is essentially an idle clicker game. Whilst the lore is plenty interesting and makes you want to continue, that's essentially all there is to it. It's like if you took Magic Potion Explorer and made fifty levels or something of the same exact damned hundred floor slog. The only difference between the levels is what the starting bonuses/penalties are. And well, a few spoiler-y things but I won't get into that. I won't go so far as to say the game is lazy, because it isn't. It does however get extremely repetitive extremely fast. All in all, if you like idle games you'll probably enjoy this, but if you're an RPG person steer clear. This is definitely not a $10 game and perhaps not even $5. Grab it if it's ever on sale for less than $3.. Forgive me for this, but I'm going to be harsh here. If you haven't played Rosenkreuzstilette yet, please take this opportunity to check it out.. Story from development : Originally, this game was intended to be a visual novel. We wrote this story long before development of our previous game, at a time when our attention was focused on creating visual novels. But we wanted to wait and give form to this story after gaining more familiarity with game development. As time passed we became interested in game genres other than visual novels. We were able to give form to the story by the time we had mastered development tools. So it is at this time and taking on this form that our story has revealed itself. Unlike novel games, there is little text and a lot of information, but that is what worked best for this game's system. We hope you enjoy uncovering this world through information revealed part by part. Add Magic Potion Destroyer to your wishlist now to stay up to date.. Up to 80% off in the Winter Sales : Its that time of year again, and we have set our games on sale to join in with the Winter Sales! Check out our catalog with fantastic indie games up to 80% off!!
